ABANDONED OR DESERTED FARMS.
Can any of our readers tell us how many farms have been abandoned or left as unoccupied in the town of Norway in the past eight years? We would like a Grand Chapter of Maine, has made official visits to Wiscasset and Camden, the

Mrs. E. F. Smith.
Hattie Angeline, the older of the two daughters of Albion B. and Susan (Cummings) Andrews, was a native of Paris, where she was born in May, 1874. Her parents died when she was small, and she found a home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cummings, until marriage with Eugene F. Smith, esq., of Norway, in November, 1896, changed her residence to this town.
She had always been a favorite among the people at Paris Hill, and after coming to Norway made many friends here.
Happiness in her own home was, however, destined to be short, for consumption attacked her and after a severe illness of several months, she died on Saturday last.
The funeral at the house, Tuesday afternoon, was attended by a multitude of sorrowing relatives and friends. Revs.
E. W. Pierce and Caroline E. Angell, pastors of the Universalist churches at Paris Hill and Norway, spoke words of comfort. Interment was at Pine Grove.
The bearers were Stephen B. Cummings,
Arthur E. Forbes, Charles W. Bowker
and Henry J. Bangs.
The floral tributes were beautiful indeed, and were given by a large number of friends. The flowers were carried to her resting place by four of her intimate friends, Mrs. Charles W. Bowker, Mrs.
Thomas Barnes, Madge Wilson and Maud
Douglas.

Twenty-seven ladies attended the W.
C. T. U. meeting at their rooms, Monday evening. Each lady invited a guest. A fine salad supper was served and the guests enjoyed themselves in a social manner, after which a meeting was held and the different departments of the Order were discussed.
Tuesday, the 29th, was the first day in March when the bright face of the sun did not greet us. No snow fall and only two showers of rain fell during the month previous to that day. Tuesday's faint drizzle was followed by an inch of rainfall in the night, the clouds clearing away at daybreak.
Another School Entertainment.
The scholars of the freshman class in Norway high school gave an entertainment in Concert Hall, Wednesday evening, for the piano fund. There were singing by Mertie French, readings by Frankie Farquhar and Belle Harriman
and the farce, "Aunt Charlotte's Maid", given with the following cast of characters:
Fanny Volley.....June Leavitt
Horatio Thomas.....Rich Pendexter
Milda Jones.....Bertha Mann
Mrs. Charlotte Puddifoot.....Fred Jones
Major Volley.....Stephen Jewett
Lawyer Pivott.....Ernest Sweet
The hall was crowded and everybody pronounced the entertainment very fine.
Ice cream and cake were served. It was followed by a sociable, with dancing and games.

an expert trimmer of ladies' headwear.
She expects to have her store open in a few days.
A grate to keep back the salmon has been put in the chute at the upper mill privilege. Salmon even though landlocked for years have an instinct of trying to get to the ocean. A dozen or more left the lake, last fall, but were caught at the second dam and returned to the lake. This grate will prevent their leaving.
We notice the Franklin (Mass.) Sentinel has some words of praise for Dr. J.
C. Gallison, who has left off legislating at the state capital to be one of the selectmen of Franklin. His former associates at the state house are saying that their debates are sadly wanting in the pith and point that the doctor used to infuse into them.
It is reported that Mrs. W. H. Woodbury of Cambridge, Mass., recently had two paralytic shocks and is very low.
Mr. Woodbury is in poor health. Thirty years ago everybody in this vicinity
knew Will Woodbury, the stable keeper, and his wife was a Paris lady, and the older people in this vicinity will be sorry to hear the above news.
The next meeting of Norway Grange, which comes on Saturday, April 9th, will be devoted to the conferring of third and fourth degrees. After the work of the degrees is over, a short time will be given for social intercourse during which refreshments will be served. Owing to the extra work this meeting will be called to order a little earlier than usual, by one o'clock if possible.
Thursday evening at the Congregational church in place of the usual circle the musical sketch "A Trip to Europe,"
given by the children, two months ago, will be repeated, as many requests have been made to hear it again. It is hoped many who were unable to be present before, will come and see how well the children can entertain them. At the close of the entertainment ice cream will be served.

At Work Again.

A few applications of Salvation Oil will readily cure sprains and bruises, and heal cuts, burns and scalds. It is undoubtedly the best pain-cure on the market, and should be ready for use in every home in the land. Mr. Frank Rubenhaber 1337 Elm St., Dubuque, Iowa, states: "I used Salvation Oil on a sprained elbow, which threatened to prevent me from working, and after several thorough rubbings, I awoke the next morning much relieved and able to go to work. Had I not used Salvation Oil I certainly would have lost a week's work, which would have amounted to many times the cost of a bottle of Oil. Everybody should keep Salvation Oil in the house." It is sold everywhere for only 25 cents.

CHILD LOVE.

Munyon Tightens Home Ties.

He Brings Repose and Relief to Mothers Mind.

Can children love their parents too much? The little ones look to their father and mother for food and shelter and for wisdom and example. The sense of dependence and gratitude is the foundation of child life. How happy are parents who can make their children look to them also for relief from pain and danger from disease? Munyon has made a special study of the diseases of children and has prepared a medicine for fevers, croup, cholera, morbus, diarrhoea, coughs, colds, sore throats, whooping cough, and other childhood maladies. Mothers should keep all these remedies in the house for protection against emergencies. Time is every thing in doctoring children. A few doses of the "proper remedy" given at the right time will prevent long and dangerous spells of illness, and save many a dollar in doctor's fees. Munyon's Homeopathic Home Remedy Company compound a separate specific for each disease. They are for sale by druggists, mostly for 25 cents each. Personal letters to Professor Munyon, 135 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., are answered with free medical advice for any disease.

THE DEATH RUN.

By OY WARMAN.

[Copyright, 1895, by the Author.]
Along in the early eighties, when the Denver and Rio Grande was a narrow gauge road and the main line lay across the great divide at Marshall pass, there was a wreck in the Black canyon, and of that wreck I write.

So rough and impenetrable was this canyon that the men sent out to blaze the trail were unable to get through. Engineers, with their instruments, were let down from the top of the canyon wall, hundreds of feet, by long ropes, and to this day, if you look up when the train goes round "Dead Man's Curve," you will see a frayed out rope whipping the gray rocks 500 feet above the river and the rail.

By the breaking of this rope a human life was lost, the first of many lives that have been lost in this wild canyon. In the rush and hurry to complete the road little attention was given to sloping the cuts or making it safe for the men who ride ahead. So when the spring came and the snow began to melt on the mountains and moisten the earth great pieces of "scenery" would loose their hold upon the steep hill and sweep down the side of the canyon, carrying rails, roadbed—in fact, everything but the right of way—across the river, where the landside was often landed high and dry on the opposite shore.

So often was the "scenery" shifted during the first 12 months that the night run through the Black canyon, so wildly beautiful by day, so grand and awful by night, came to be called the "death run."

It was Engineer Peasley's run out that night, but he had just returned from the stony little graveyard that had been staked out on the banks of the Gunnison, where he had buried his baby. He was a delicate looking man, and when he came into the roundhouse that afternoon to register off he wore his soft hat far down over his inflamed eyes, as if he would hide from the world any trace of that sacred grief. Kipp, his fireman, saw him and was sorry, for he knew how dearly the driver had loved the little one now lost to him. Sliding from the pilot, where he had been scouring the number plate, Kipp went to the book and registered off also.

And so it happened that when No. 7 left Gunnison at a quarter past 9 Jack Walsh, held the seat and Fireman McConnell handled the scoop. The sharp exhausters from the straight stack sent up a solid stream of fire as they hurried out through the yards.

The brisk bark of the bounding engine dwindled down to a faint pant and was drowned in the roar of the wheels as the long train hurried away down the valley and was swallowed up in the Black canyon. The run was regarded as a difficult one, but the extra crew were equal to it, and at every station up to half past 11 the operator wired the dispatcher, the dispatcher the train master, and he the superintendent, "No. 7 on time."

Although he had no regular run, McConnell was really an old fireman. He had but recently returned to the road after a year's absence. At the earnest solicitation of his good mother he had left the rail to return to his father's farm near Salina, Kan. He was a good and dutiful son, and he loved his mother as only such a son can love, but he could not help the longing within him to return to the road. That summer the Missouri Pacific opened a new line right through his father's farm, and every day he heard the snort of the iron horse, saw the trains go up and down the track, saw the engineers throwing kisses to the girls on the farm, and he wanted to return to the Rockies. More than once every day he looked away to the west, where he knew the trains were going up and down, where the snow lay in great drifts on one side of the track and the flowers bloomed by the other. Who can say how the heart of the engineer longs for the engine?

He loves the locomotive
As the flowers love the sun,
As the sailor loves the sea,
When the harvest had been out and the golden grain garnered, the restless youth bade his parents adieu and set his face toward the sunset. He had been a faithful fireman and found no trouble in re-establishing himself in the service of the "Soenic" line.

The "death run" was a long one—135 miles over mountains and through canyons. They had crossed Cero summit and were now roaring along the canyon by the banks of the beautiful river. The night grew warmer as they drifted down toward the valley of the Grande. The engineer sat silently in his place, trying the water, whistling for stations and watching the way. The fireman, having little to do now, lounged in the open window and looked out on the rippling river where the moonlight lay. It was almost midnight when the operator at Roubideau was awakened by the wild wail of the west bound express. As the long train rattled over the bridge beyond the little station the operator reached for the key and made the wire say, "No. 7 on time."

John Farrington.
John Farrington of Berlin Mills, N. H., who has been in poor health for several months past, died very suddenly on Monday morning, March 20, from heart disease. He arose about 4 o'clock in the morning, going out into an adjoining room, and his wife hearing a fall, went to his assistance, finding him on the shed floor face downward. She immediately raised her husband's head on her arm, but at a mouth he soon expired. Mr. Farrington was born in Stow, Jan. 15, 1827, and was the son of Henry S. and Susan (Chandler) Farrington and spent his early life upon a farm. He was a great admirer of horses and fancy stock. He was married, Sept. 1st, 1853, to Louisa Wiley of his native town in which he resided until 1877, when he moved to Gorham, N. H., where he ran a boarding house for the C. S. Peabody Co., remaining there until 1879, when he went to Berlin and entered the employ of the Berlin Mills Co.

Mr. Farrington embraced the Christian faith in the fall of 1878, under the ministry of Rev. A. J. Benedict and was a member of the Congregational church, July 4th, 1880, holding office as a deacon of the society in 1881, holding this important office until last June when he declined a re-election.

He is survived by a wife and three children (two having died in infancy) Mrs. Rebecca W. Pickett, Peabody, Mass., John Q. of Berlin Mills, and Frank W. of Gorham, also two brothers, Charles E. and Henry S. of Lowell, Mass., and three sisters, Mrs. D. W. Willard, Portland, Mrs. Benj. Eastman of Fryeburg and Mrs. James Irish of Stow.

Mr. Farrington was a popular Odd Fellow, being a member of Glen Lodge, No. 54, Gorham, under whose auspices the funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, together with Berlin Lodge, at the Congregational church, Rev. J. B. Caruthers officiating. The funeral was largely attended and the floral offerings were profuse and elegant, attesting to the high esteem in which he was held by his many friends and acquaintances.

The Children's Corner.
Hebron, Me., March 21, 1898.
DEAR EDITOR.—As it has been a long time since I wrote for your paper, I thought I would write again. I like to read the children's corner very much. My school closed some time ago and I am enjoying my vacation very much. My grandpa has a large sap orchard. I went down the other day and got sweet enough to last me a while. Edith M. Holman's riddle is a pair of tongs. I will close with a riddle. Black and white and red all over.
From your friend,
ERNEST L. GURNEY.

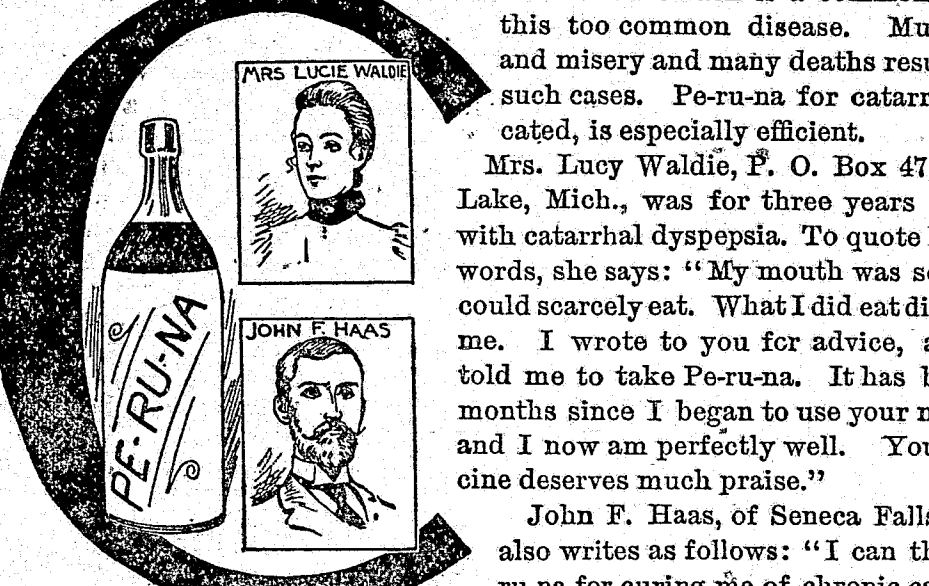

East Fryeburg, Me., March 20, 1898.
DEAR MR. EDITOR.—I am a girl twelve years old. My school finished, Jan. 21st. There were nine scholars. I study reading, spelling, geography, history, grammar and arithmetic. If this letter escapes the wise beak, I will write again. I think the answer to Minnie Eagle's riddle is snow. Well I will close with a riddle. As I walked out and in again, from the dead the living came, six there were and seven to be, eight will set the virgin free.
Your little friend,
GERTRUDE WARREN.

STATE OF MAINE.
December 22, A. D. 1897.
To the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, next to be holden at Paris, within and for said county on the second Tuesday of February, A. D. 1898.
Josephine Jordan of Norway in said county and State, wife of Samuel A. Jordan of Paris unknown in said County of Canada, respectfully represents that her maiden name was Josephine Jordan; that she was lawfully married to the said Samuel A. Jordan at Columbia, in the county of Coos and State of New Hampshire on the second day of April, A. D. 1892, by William B. Cone, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace duly authorized to solemnize marriages; that they lived together as husband and wife until their husband and wife at Stratford, Columbia, Lancaster, and Colebrook, in said county of Coos and State of New Hampshire until the month of January, A. D. 1896, that your libellant has always conducted herself toward her said husband as a faithful, chaste, and affectionate wife, but that her said husband, wholly unmindful of his marriage vow, had been guilty of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, to such an extent that he has frequently been unable to care for himself, and has been picked up by neighbors on the streets, and carried to shelter, that he has committed various crimes, and that he has said wife, in that he has used obscene, profane, and abusive language toward her, and has called by such names as God damned bitch and God damned whore, without any cause or provocation on her part therefor, that being so said libellant believes, and she to labor, he has grossly refused and neglected to provide suitable maintenance for her and said libellant further avers that she has resided in this state in good faith for more than one year prior to the commencement of these proceedings, for a divorce, and further avers that the residence of her said husband is within the State of Maine, and that she has used reasonable diligence in endeavoring to ascertain the same, but has been unable to do so, for the reason that her said husband has left the State of New Hampshire, where he formerly resided, and has gone, as your libellant believes, to some part of Dominion of Canada, to your defendant not known, and where she has been unable to ascertain by any means which she has been enabled to command, though she has used reasonable diligence in endeavoring to do so. And said libellant further avers that there is no collusion between her and her said husband to procure a divorce. Wherefore your libellant believes it to be right and proper that a divorce from the bond of matrimony between her and her said husband should be granted, and prays your Honorable Court that such divorce may be decreed.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrhal Inflammation That Causes Dyspepsia.
Mrs. Waldie's Cure One of Many.

ATARRH of the stomach is a common form of this too common disease. Much pain and misery and many deaths result from such cases. Pe-ru-na for catarrh so located, is especially efficient.
Mrs. Lucy Waldie, P. O. Box 47, Otsego Lake, Mich., was for three years afflicted with catarrhal dyspepsia. To quote her own words, she says: "My mouth was so sore I could scarcely eat. What I did eat distressed me. I wrote to you for advice, and you told me to take Pe-ru-na. It has been ten months since I began to use your medicine and I now am perfectly well. Your medicine deserves much praise."
John F. Haas, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., also writes as follows: "I can thank Pe-ru-na for curing me of chronic catarrh of the stomach. By taking it and following Dr. Hartman's dietary advice, I have been cured. I can recommend Pe-ru-na to everyone, for catarrh." If you have catarrh, do not let it extend to some more vital organ, but treat it at once before it becomes so firmly seated as to preclude all chances of recovery. Take Pe-ru-na for catarrh, no matter where it may be. It will cure you. Buy Pe-ru-na at once of your druggist and begin to take it without delay. You cannot make a mistake by following this course. It might also be advisable for you, if you suffer from catarrh, to write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, at Columbus, Ohio. He will gladly advise you and prescribe for you, free.

The community was saddened, last Wednesday p. m., by the death of Addie, wife of Edwin Jackson and daughter of Augustus and Annie F. Bacon. Although she had been in poor health for some little time, she was not thought to be critically ill until about two weeks before her death, which came with a shock to her friends and associates for she was universally liked by young and old, ever had a kindly word and pleasant smile for all. She was twenty years of age and married, last November. The funeral occurred at the church, Friday, the 25th, Rev. F. E. Wheeler preaching a beautiful and most touching sermon. The church was full of sympathizing friends and neighbors. Her Sabbath school class and other young friends attended in a body. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, all testifying to the love and esteem with which they regarded the young friend so suddenly called from their midst by that fell destroyer, quick consumption.

BLUE STORE.

LET US REASON about it. We do not claim we are the only clothing store in the county; we don't claim we sell goods for half they are worth; we don't claim others ask twice as much for their goods as we do; we don't claim to keep goods we don't keep; we don't claim an article is different from what it is.

WHAT WE DO CLAIM. That we have conducted a clothing store longer than any other man now doing business in the county. That our long experience, and strict application to its details, entitles us to a good knowledge of clothing, and the wants of the public. That our ample means, wide acquaintance with large manufacturers, and personal visitation to the markets, enables us to own goods as cheap as any store in New England. We own our store. We conduct it on a plan that enables us to sell our wares very cheap. Small margins are all we expect. The days of large profits are a thing of the past. No one sells for $4.49, $5.87, $6.37, $7.99, or any of those try-to-catch-you prices, that others sell for $10. They can't do it, it is unreasonable, and sensible people are beginning to ignore such statements.

THERE IS A VAST DIFFERENCE IN CLOTHING that looks the same. Clothing is like men. Cannot always be judged by outward appearance. May have a good external appearance, but a bad make up, and cannot be relied on. It is the same with some clothing, good cloth, but poorly made and not worthy your consideration. The make-up of a garment is what carefully look after. They must be made well or we won't sell them. CAREFUL INSPECTION OF OUR LARGE STOCK, FINE ASSORTMENT, DESIRABLE GOODS, AND LOW PRICES WILL MAKE YOU A PURCHASER AT OUR STORE.

ABOUT CUSTOM TAILORING. We are the only clothing store in the county that has a strictly tailoring department. We carry a stock of cloth. We have a cutter and pressman, and all our measure garments are made under our personal supervision in our work rooms in the rear of our ready-made department. No make-believe we do what we do not do.

OUR SPRING STOCK is now complete in every department. Examine it before you make a purchase, compare it with other stocks. Consider the fact about clothing we have given you in this ad, then purchase where judgment dictates. Very Truly Yours,

F. H. NOYES,
Norway, Maine.

Spring Overcoats For Men

At this time the winter overcoat begins to show signs of its heavy weather experiences. The linings tell of its many takings on and off. The buttonholes speak of infinite buttonings and unbuttonings. And now come the days when the winter coat feels too heavy, there's an instinct to carry it on your arm or dispense with it altogether. All of this makes our showing of
